DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1 to 14 and 24 to 34, drawn to a rare earth-transition metal-boron magnetic powder, classified in class 148, subclass 302.
  - II. Claims 15 to 16, drawn to a method of making a rare earth-transition metal-boron magnetic powder, classified in class 75, subclass 349.
  - III. Claims 17 to 23 and 35 to 38, drawn to a bonded rare earth-transition metal-boron magnet powder, classified in class 252, subclass 62.54.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions II and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process such as for example simply casting the alloy composition into an ingot and grinding the ingot into a powder or melt spinning the molten alloy composition to form an amorphous alloy ribbon or powder and heating the resulting ribbon or powder to form the desired crystalline structure..
3. Inventions III and I are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because whereas the subcombination of the Group I magnetic powder is limited to an alloy composition having specific proportions for the rare earth metal, the transition metal, the element M and boron the magnetic material in the bonded magnet of Group III is silent with respect to the proportions for the rare earth metal, the transition metal, the element M and boron. The subcombination has separate utility such as in a sintered permanent or die-upset magnet.

4. The Group II and Group III inventions are distinct in that they are capable of separate manufacture, use, or sale as claimed and are patentable (novel and unobvious) over each other (though they may each be unpatentable because of the prior art), MPEP 802.01.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and because the search required for anyone of the above grouped inventions is not required for the remaining groups of inventions, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. A telephone call was made to Mr. Bryant Wade on August 5, 2002 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
